The vine

Plot /climat Champs Goudins and Le Pré de la Folie

History In Old French, the adjective "gaudin" means "of the woods". These woods may have been deciduous trees, possibly alluded to by Le Pré de la Folie, as "Fou" (fool) was once used to refer to the beech tree.

Soil The plot has deep clay-silt soil. It is a poorly draining area, so residual water can be an issue in heavy rain. The limestone sublayer lies deep below the surface.

Our plot(s) Surface area: 24 ares. The plot is located at the bottom of the slope.
